Holcomb announces $200M extension of SR 101

Highway to connect I-74 & I-71 through Switzerland County

BY BOB DEMAREE

An approximately $200 million extension of State Road 101 was announced Friday by Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb to provide a direct route for Switzerland, Dearborn and Ohio counties to both I-71 and I-74 and offer a new cross-river route for freight traffic through southeastern Indiana.

The State Road 101 extension was announced along with two other southern Indiana projects, bringing a total commitment of $475 million in funding for new roadways, to improve connectivity of the highway and interstates that support business and industry through interstate commerce.

The announcement stated that the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) will begin development of a 25-mile extension to State Road 101 with the existing portion of U.S. 50 near Milan and at the Ohio River crossing via Markland Dam near Vevay, which is just miles from I-71 in northern Kentucky.

The announcement did not include a projected start date except that initial planning for the project will begin within the next year.

Switzerland County Commissioner Jamie Peters said, "We're definitely excited. It provides opportunities we haven't had in the past of access and connection, and it provides growth potential for industry. There's no guarantee, but we're hoping for and would like to see those things."

"The State Road 101 announcement was a bit of a surprise to the council," said Lance Collier, president of the Switzerland County Council. "We knew back in the summer/fall of 2019 that our commissioners were working with officials from INDOT, as were other affected counties, to figure out

Severed fiber optic cable causes Saturday outage

BY BOB DEMAREE

A severed fiber optic cable caused an outage that impacted internet, phone and some cable TV services across Indiana, Kentucky and a few other states on Saturday including MetroNet and Verizon locally.

No estimate was available on now many customers were impacted by the outage.

Verizon released a statement to news sources on Saturday noting: "Earlier today, our primary fiber vendor experienced two separate fiber cuts to their primary and backup network that disrupted service to some of our cell sites."

MetroNet posted a similar message attributing the outage to a severed optical cable. The outage began Saturday morning and service was restored after 9 p.m. that evening.

Local rescuers assist another hiker at Clifty Park

Rope recovery was record 16th of year

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Local rescuers responded to another medical emergency at Clifty Falls State Park — the record 15th rescue of the year involving hikers or patrons of the park in trouble — on Saturday.

Saturday's rescue involving a rope rescue on Trail 5 was related to a hiker with a medical emergency.

Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black said about 150 feet of rope was used to assist evacuating the woman off the trial with the process taking about two hours to complete. She was then transported to King's Daughters' Hospital in Madison.

Agencies responding to assist in the rescue include Madison Township, Rykers' Ridge, Hanover and Madison Rescue 6 fire departments as well as the KDH EMS.

"This is a record high for rescues at the state park," said Black, who encouraged caution when hiking the park's trails.

Elsewhere, Firefighters were dispatched to a dump truck fire on Friday after a truck delivering hot asphalt to a paving project on Dawson Smith Road caught fire.

Dave O'Mara Contractors, of North Vernon, was paving a section of Dawson Smith Road between Shun Pike and Paper Mill Road, early Friday afternoon when the road gave out from under a dump truck delivering hot asphalt sending the vehicle off into power lines as the tires of the truck caught fire at approximately 12:30 p.m.

Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black said firefighters had to wait until Duke Energy turned off the power lines before tackling the fire. However, damage was still contained to the tires.

Jefferson County Highway Department Clerk Vicki Wehner said while the mishap delayed paving work, the project was still on schedule to be completed by Monday, June 14.

Madison Township and Rykers' Ridge fire departments responded to the fire.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Food Inspections

The Jefferson County Health Department conducts quarterly inspections of all food establishments or locations that handle food in the county. Health inspections become a public record 10 days after the inspection takes place.

The documents highlight critical, noncritical and repeat violations during each inspection or follow-up. Critical violations are listed. All records are supplied by the Jefferson County Health Department, which can be reached at 812-273-1942.

April 5-10, 2021

Burger King: Follow-up — The establishment has completed the tasks that were required to re-open. All surfaces have been washed, rinsed and sanitized and all new single use items have been put out to use once open. Establishment is good to re-open and operate per usual.

Canaan Community Academy: One non-critical.

Captain D's: One non-critical.

Central Hotel: One critical.

Christian Academy of Madison. No violations.

Dollar General, 601 Clifty Drive: No violations.

Hardee's: One critical — A clear and blue spray bottle that is hanging above the prep sink needs a label on it. There is a clear liquid inside the spray bottle.

Indian Trails: Four non-critical, two repeats.

Kona Ice of Madison/Columbus: No violations.

Rivercrest Lighhouse LLC: No violations.

Scoops Ice Cream Shoppe: No violations.

Subway-Hilltop: COMPLAINT — A complaint was received by a customer stating that an employee that was assembling sandwiches kept touching their mask and face and with he same gloves on would then touch all the toppings for the sandwiches. Anytime any gloves touch an unsanitary surface they should be discarded and another set of gloves should go on.

Yamato Steakhouse: Two non-critical.

April 12-17, 2021

BP Hanover: One critical — The extra storage of oil is on a rack that has candy and chips stored under it. These two products should be switched with the containers of oil being on bottom. Three non-critical, two repeats.

Brittany's Brick Oven Pizza: No violations.

Circle K, 116 Clifty Drive: Three non-critical.

Famous Tamale: No violations.

Hong Kong Kitchen: One critical — The walk-in cooler had raw shrimp observed on a shelf stacked over lettuce. These products need to be switched. Two non-critical.

Key West Shrimp House: Two non-critical.

Deputy Elementary: No violations.

Ryker's Ridge Elementary: No violations.

Lydia Middleton: No violations.

Nor-Rose Lodge: No violations.

Subway-Hilltop: COMPLAINT — A complaint was received stating that employees working during the shift were not wearing hair restraints properly. The hair should be confined with a hair net, hat or visor. All employees were observed wearing a hair restraint as required. No objectionable conditions noted at time of complaint inspection.

The Downtowner: One critical — Two spray bottles were found in the establishment without a label. One bottle was located by the dishwasher with a purple liquid inside of it and the other bottle was in the server's station with a pink liquid in it. One non-critical.

Thomas Family Winery: One non-critical.

a way forward for the road extension project. To my knowledge, those groups were not able to reach an agreement. There were concerns over the requirement of the county taking on the financial responsibility of maintaining some of the state roads in our county. We hadn't heard any updates since that time. We haven't heard all of the details yet on how this will unfold. I don't believe INDOT has specified an official route and there's no mention of us taking responsibility for existing highways."

Peters explained there were, indeed, discussions two years ago in which the state was proposing that Switzerland County take over control of State Road 250 and State Road 156 in the county. Peters noted that discussions at that time were that Switzerland County might agree to that, but that the county would need financial help. Ultimately, Peters said nothing came of that requirement and he is not aware of any such requirement with the project announced Friday, which is even better news for the county.

"Indiana's location and extensive transportation network make our state one of the most attractive places in the country to do business and create jobs," Holcomb said. "These projects will better connect our communities, enhance commerce within and beyond our borders and deliver value for Hoosiers for generations to come."

The state will invest $75 million for design and construction of added travel lanes, passing lanes and intersection improvements at strategic locations on U.S. 231. The improvements will significantly reduce congestion in the Jasper and Huntingburg areas and improve safety and mobility throughout the approximately 48-mile corridor from I-64 near Dale to I-69 near Crane. Construction is anticipated to begin by late 2022.

Indiana and Kentucky have been working together since 2016 to develop the I-69 Ohio River Crossing near Evansville. Indiana will now invest $200 for INDOT to begin designing the Indiana approach to the Ohio River, which includes an interchange with the existing I-69 and Veterans Memorial Parkway and an approximately 1.5 mile new-terrain portion of I-69 approaching the Ohio River.

INDOT and the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet will continue to partner on development of the bridge portion of the project as both states design and build respective approach portions of the project. Once fully connected, I-69 will be a continuous interstate from the U.S.-Canada border near Port Huron, Michigan to the Kentucky-Tennessee state line.

"Modern, safe, reliable transportation infrastructure is a 'must have' to compete for talent, growth and job creation in today's economy," INDOT Commissioner Joe McGuinness said. "With Indiana's commitment to taking care of our existing roads and bridges and our investment in major projects, our state is delivering a transportation system that plays a major role in creating one of the nation's best business climates."

OBITUARIES

Joseph Callis

Joseph Aaron Callis, 41, of Sulphur, Kentucky, died Thursday, June 10, 2021, at Baptist Health La Grange in La Grange, Kentucky.

He was born on Feb. 18, 1980, in Louisville, to Donald Ballard Sr. and Linda Bentley Callis. He was a 1999 graduate of Henry County High School in New Castle, Kentucky, and worked for James Louden Construction and a former member of Covington Baptist Church at Pattons Creek in Trimble County, Kentucky. He enjoyed fishing, his family — especially his children — making people smile, helping people and could fix anything.

Survivors include his parents, of Sulphur; his soulmate, Jessica Walls; two sons, PFC Jason Michael Bowman, serving in Germany and Waylon Isaac Callis of Sulphur; a daughter, Brelynn Renee Callis of Sulphur; two brothers, Donavin C. Callis of Clarksville, Indiana, and Donald B. Callis Jr. of Lexington, Kentucky; and his paternal grandmother, Edith Straughn Callis of Sulphur.

He was preceded in death by his paternal grandfather, Ballard Callis; maternal grandparents, Robert and Ruby Bentley; and other relatives.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, June 15, at the Ransdell Funeral Home in Bedford. Visitation is 10 a.m. until the time of services Tuesday at the funeral home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Covington Baptist Church through the funeral home. Online condolences and memorials, www.ransdellfuneral.com.

She was born on March 3, 1959, in Madison, Indiana, to Oliver and Faye Ann Dailey Lockwood. She was raised in Switzerland County, Indiana, and was a 1977 graduate of the Switzerland County High School. She moved to Jackson, Ohio, where she married Forest McClain on Sept. 18, 1976, and they had two sons. She was employed as a mold press operator for Jackson Corporation-Rubberqueen in Jackson for 4 ½ years and later employed for Deerland Resort as a secretary in Jackson for four years. She moved back to the Switzerland County community in 1994 and was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Daughters of the American Revolution. She was a former member of the Hope Rebekah Lodge No. 851 in Bennington and enjoyed writing, crafts, pets and spending time with her grandchildren and friends.

Survivors include her father of Rising Sun, Indiana; her husband of 44 years of Bennington; her sons, James McClain of East Enterprise, Indiana and Daniel McClain of Milton, Kentucky; and her sister, Volena Lynn Wells.

She was preceded in death by her mother on Feb. 12, 2000.

Private visitation and funeral service will be held at the Haskell & Morrison Funeral Home in Vevay, Indiana. Interment will follow in the New Liberty Cemetery in East Enterprise.

Memorial contributions may be made to The National Multiple Sclerosis Society. Cards through the funeral home. Online condolences and memorials, www.haskellandmorrison.com.

Betty Rucker

Betty Jean Rucker, 85, of Hope, Indiana, died Saturday, June 12, 2021, at the home of her grandson in Rock Hill, South Carolina.

She was born July 29, 1935, in Switzerland County, Indiana, to Marion and Mary Alice Martin Oakley. She married Donald Eugene Rucker on Dec. 28, 1957, and they had two children. She was a homemaker and worked at the U.S. Shoe Factory in Vevay, Indiana, early in life. She attended the Parkside Baptist Church in Columbus, Indiana, the Lewis Creek Baptist Church in Shelby County, Indiana, and was a former member of the Hope Chapter Order of Eastern Star. She was an avid reader, enjoyed cooking and playing games with her great grandchildren.

Survivors include her children, Denise Flora of Rock Hill and Kevin Rucker of Hope; a brother, Charles Oakley of Bridgeport, Illinois; and five grandchildren, five great grandchildren and several nieces, nephews and other relatives.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband of 57 years on June 2, 2015; two brothers, Bobby and Hal Oakley; and her companion, Dick Hatton.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. on Friday, June 18, at the Barkes, Weaver & Glick Funeral Home in Columbus with burial at the Hawcreek Baptist Cemetery near Hope. Visitation is 11 a.m. until time of services Friday at the funeral home.

Pence, wife buy $1.93M home in Carmel

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CARMEL — Former Vice President Mike Pence and his wife have purchased a $1.93 million suburban Indianapolis house that sits on a 5-acre spread and features seven bedrooms, a swimming pool and an indoor basketball court.

Pence and his wife, Karen, took out a $1.54 million mortgage on the 10,300-square-foot house in Carmel, just north of Indianapolis, online Hamilton County property records show. The couple paid $130,000 above the home's $1.8 million list price, the Indianapolis Business Journal reported.

Pence announced in a Jan. 20 speech in his hometown of Columbus after he attended President Joe Biden's inauguration that he and Karen would be moving back home to Indiana this summer.

As vice president, Pence lived in the vice presidential residence on the grounds of the Naval Observatory for four years, and then rented a house in suburban Virginia after leaving office.

Previously, as Indiana's governor, he lived in the governor's mansion in Indianapolis.

In his most recent financial disclosure statement filed as vice president in early 2021, Pence listed few assets aside from his Indiana government pension and retirement fund.

But Pence is working on a memoir for Simon & Schuster that is scheduled to come out in 2023. Pence's agent said in April that the book deal was worth "well into seven figures."

Pence also recently signed onto the speaker roster for Worldwide Speakers Group, which arranges paying speaking engagements on six continents.

His sprawling new Indiana home appears to have enough flash to entertain potential donors as he considers a potential run for the presidency in 2024.

The home, built in 2008, includes a dock overlooking a pond, a "stunning" in-ground pool at the back of the house that offers a "party-like atmosphere," a workout room and a 1/3-sized indoor basketball court, according to a listing on Realtor.com.

The residence also has four garages, a spacious basement bar, a workout room and a stone fireplace on the main level.

A spokesperson for Pence did not respond to questions about the purchase.

Bayh, Coats added as distinguished scholars by IU

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMINGTON — Former U.S. Sens. Evan Bayh and Dan Coats are taking on roles with Indiana University as distinguished scholars.

The university announced this past week that Bayh will work with the O'Neill School of Public and Environmental Affairs, while Coats will join the Hamilton Lugar School of Global and International Studies. Their projects will include working with a new master's degree in international affairs program that involves both IU schools.

IU President Michael McRobbie said Bayh and Coats are among the university's most renowned alumni.

"Both have had lengthy and productive careers in the public sector, and both have served as bipartisan leaders at the highest levels of government, where they have consistently championed the causes of education, civic responsibility, community service and global engagement," McRobbie said in a statement.

Bayh, a Democrat, was Indiana's governor for eight years before serving in the U.S. Senate from 1999 to 2011. Coats, a Republican, was a congressman, then was a senator from 1989 to 1999 and 2011 to 2017. He also was director of national intelligence under President Donald Trump.

"Everything should be up now. We're sorry for the interruption. We understand that this was bad time, especially on the weekend. We appreciate your patience as we worked through the situation."

Susie Lawrence, Jefferson County 911 Executive Director, said the communication disruption impacted the county's Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) in which detailed information is cataloged for all calls.

"We went to the old form of paper," she said, and then entered them all once the system was back up, which she said was around 10 p.m. on Saturday.

Lawrence said local 911 calls were not impacted because they are managed by another system. However, all other regular calls were affected and dispatchers used personal cell phones to communicate with other counties despite having sporadic issues with Verizon cell service on Saturday.

Lawrence praised the dispatchers who worked Saturday for making the best out of a difficult situation.

"They did a fine job" and were able to respond to every call, she said.

"No one was left out in the cold," she added, noting they still were able to connect with officers through regular two-way radio communication.

The gift of sobriety

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My daughter is the co-owner of a salon in Florida. All the folks there work extremely hard trying to make a living.

Here is the problem: Let's say "Karen" books a hair color treatment that requires three hours to complete on a Thursday. That time frame is now blocked off on the schedule. On Wednesday, Karen is contacted to verify she will be in to receive her color treatment, and she verifies. As the time approaches Karen's appointment, several folks walk into the salon to request a service but are denied because the time has been allotted to Karen.

Karen is 10 minutes late and then 20 minutes late and then 30 minutes late. The salon then calls Karen to make sure she has not run into a ditch. Karen says: "Oh, I forgot all about it. I'll have to reschedule." Apparently, these no-shows have no concept that they have not only cost the salon three hours of productivity but also denied service to many walk-ins.

In some cases, folks who cannot make their appointment have the courtesy to call and inform the salon so the time allotted for their service can be filled. Would Karen just blow off an appointment with her doctor or dentist?

Folks have to come to the realization that salon owners and employees have careers that have always catered to the customer. Customers also have to understand that they have a responsibility to the salon to either uphold their commitment and show up when scheduled or have the decency to call and cancel their appointment in a timely fashion so the salon can fill the time.

The "I forgot" excuse is bogus. Remember, the owners and employees are trying to earn a living while providing the best service possible. Do you have any suggestions to make it easier to address these Karen moments? — Customer Etiquette

Dear Customer Etiquette: Yes, to answer your question, I think that Karen could also blow off a doctor or dentist appointment. It is not a personal attack on your daughter; it is a personality flaw of Karen's, in that she didn't learn about consideration for others.

In order to deter people from forgetting about appointments, your daughter could install a cancellation policy. Many businesses have them, including doctors and dentists. She could also look into an automatic email reminder for customers, with a note stating the salon's cancellation policy.

Tension with father's family

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My older brother and I have been dealing with a touchy situation for years. We are both adopted; our parents divorced when we were very young, and they both remarried.

Our adoptive father was abusive, and our mother had her own share of issues stemming from major depression. We were primarily raised by our mother and stepfather, with occasional visits up north when my mother was going through her "episodes."

After the divorce, we lost touch with our adoptive father's family until around 1995. My adoptive father remained overseas with his new wife for most of our lives and only paid child support until our 18th birthdays. When he did return stateside, he told me he didn't want anything to do with me or my brother.

Needless to say, I was very hurt by this, given that our previous conversations — only two — had been civil. He died in 2007 with these final words to me. My brother and I have an issue with our father's sister and her husband (my aunt and uncle), who are in denial about his poor treatment of us.

She constantly wants to send us pictures and other items of his, such as the American flag he received after his death. When we try to tell her we don't want these mementos, she becomes defensive, even asking why. It's hard to put into words why my brother and I don't want these painful reminders of a man who didn't care about us and was abusive. Add to that, when we get together (not often, as they live out of state), our aunt and grandmother (who died recently) constantly bad-mouthed our mother about her issues and how she raised us. This took place at least once in front of my brother and my nephew, which was truly heartbreaking.

I sincerely believe my mother did the best she could, and we turned out OK. How do I confront my father's family about this? I've tried telling my aunt straight out, but she gets defensive. Do I just grin and bear it in order to keep the peace? — Struggling

Dear Struggling: Not wanting mementos of an abusive and absent father is very understandable. Your aunt's defensiveness has nothing to do with you and your brother and everything to do with her lack of compassion and empathy for the trauma that you endured as a result of your father's abuse.

Under no circumstances should you grin and bear it. Your aunt's behavior is bullying — just like your father's was. You can politely decline and ask her not to bring it up again. If she gets defensive, just ignore it and walk away. If they put down your mother again, stick up for her and kindly ask them to stop saying negative things about your mom.

You sound like you have a lot of wisdom and know that your mother did the best she could but suffered from a disease. No more tolerating this treatment from your father's family. You suffered enough as a child, and it's time to live a free, open and joyful life.

Indiana rushes to spend federal virus relief aid on new jobs program

BY CASEY SMITH AND TOM DAVIES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana legislators scrambled in the final days of their session to make decisions on spending the state's $3 billion share of the $350 billion in federal coronavirus relief money approved this year for state and local governments.

Like many states, they directed aid to schools, businesses, highway construction and bailing out depleted unemployment insurance accounts. But with much of the money unallocated, budget writers also grabbed onto an idea floated by a local tech millionaire for a revolving loan program aimed at helping workers obtain short-term training certifications to advance their careers.

In an example of how states are casting for ways to spend the federal influx, Indiana's budget negotiators wrote in $75 million for the Career Accelerator Program — nearly triple the $27 million going to a 2% increase for the state's higher education system.

It's also more than three times what the Legislature appropriated to Republican Gov. Eric Holcomb's Next Level Jobs program two years ago, and nearly double what lawmakers re-injected into his jobs program for the next biennium.

The concept is outlined in just 80 lines of legal text in the 233-page state budget bill and will be overseen by a little-known state agency that hasn't operated such programs before and whose leaders were only approached by legislative staff a week before the final budget vote about taking on the task.

Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Ryan Mishler said the funding figure "seemed to be a good number to start with," but admitted that he and other Republican budget writers didn't have much time to develop operating specifics for the program.

"If it was general fund money, you know, maybe I would have put more thought into the dollar amount, but it seemed like it was a good use of the federal funds," Mishler said. "The funds were available for it, so let's do it. Had it not been for the federal funds, I probably would have rethought the dollar amount."

About two-thirds of states have passed budgets for next year, with others expected to do so soon. Some, such as Indiana, have been directing pandemic relief aid to new job-training programs.

In California, Gov. Gavin Newsom's latest budget proposal includes 35 workforce development proposals. More than $3 billion planned for the programs is slated to come from $26 billion in fiscal relief money.

The state's nonpartisan Legislative Analyst Office criticized Newsom's proposals as having "notable resources" and "no overarching plan or clear set of goals," noting that many programs are also "new and so large that agencies likely lack the capacity to administer them in a timely way."

Legislators in New Mexico put coronavirus relief money into programs that they had refused to fund at the same levels with regular state revenue, including $100 million to fully fund tuition for in-state college students and $10 million toward tourism advertising. The state's governor, Michelle Lujan Grisham, vetoed the appropriations and has not come forward yet with her own detailed proposal.

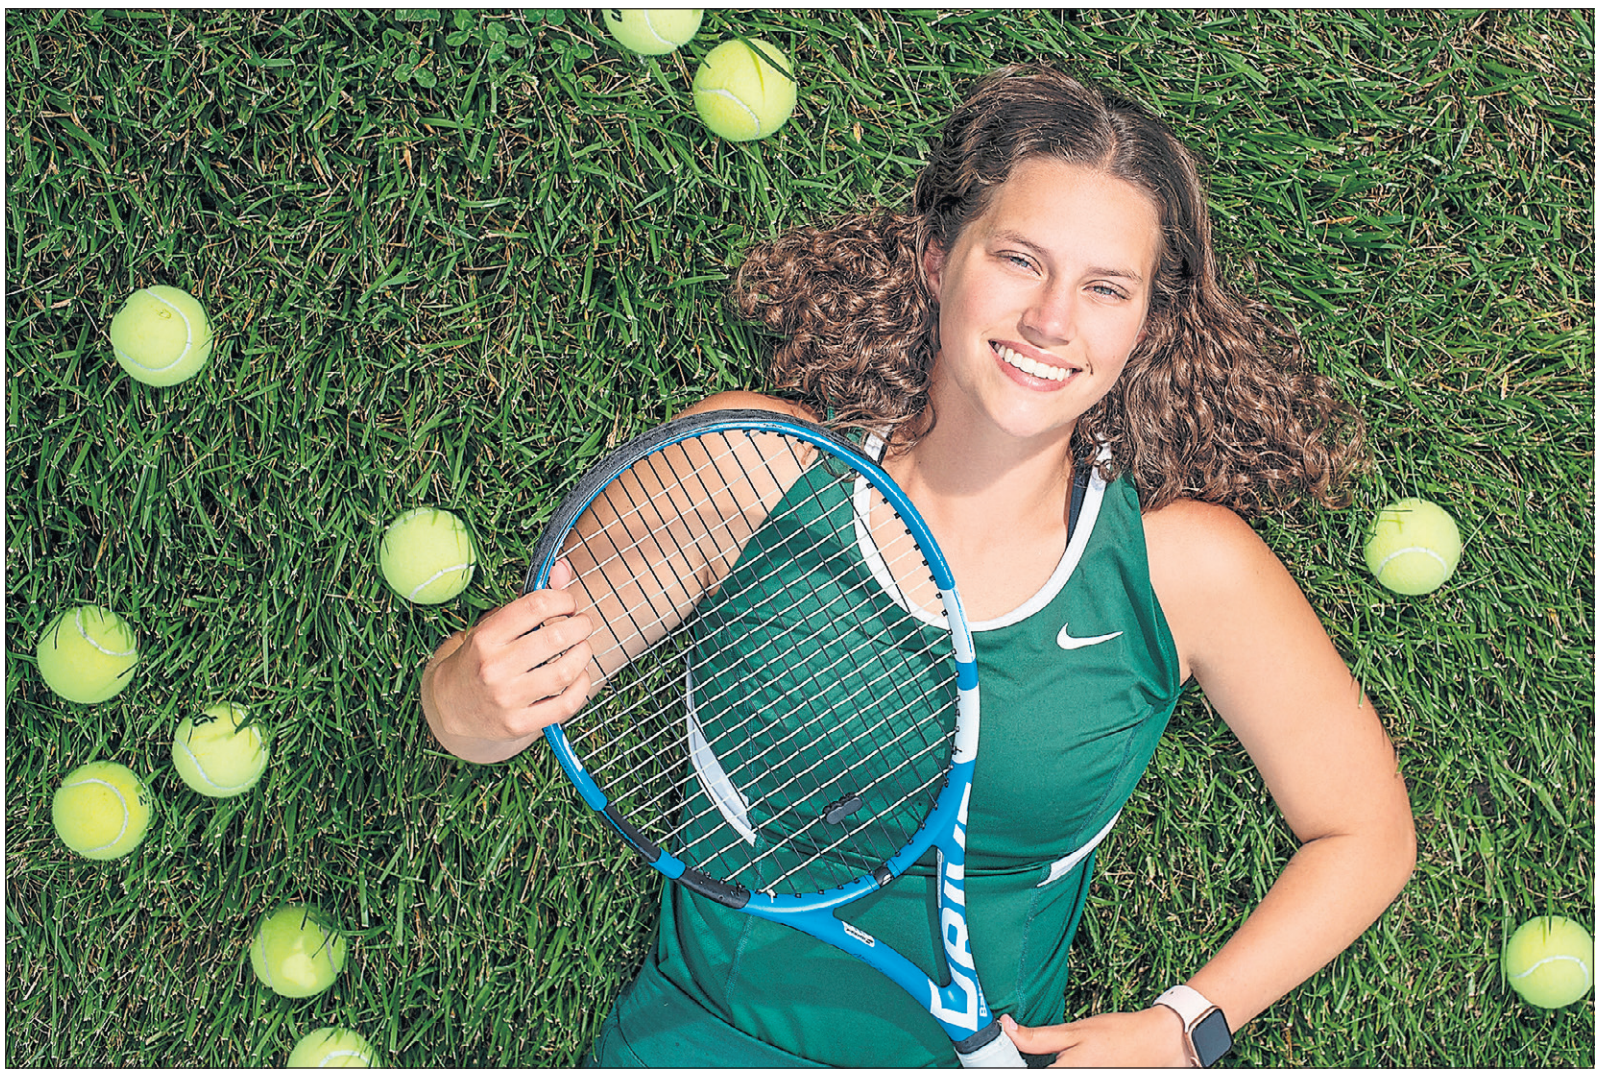
MADISON COURIER GIRLS TENNIS PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Hill's love affair with tennis pays off

BY DAVID CAMPBELL



Nina Campbell

Shawe senior Abigail Hill is the Madison Courier Girls Tennis Player of the Year.

The fact that Abigail Hill grew up around the game of tennis doesn't mean she had to like it. Despite having parents and a sister who played the sport constantly, little Abby just wasn't interested.

"Both of my parents played in college and the funny thing is, I didn't actually like tennis at first. In fact, I kind of hated it," Abigail now laughs. "My parents would force me to play with my sister and I was like, 'no.' But one day I came out here and I really started to like it. I started playing when I was seven and from there it just took off."

Despite those initial misgivings, Abigail grew to love the sport and she quickly developed into Shawe's top player and caps her stellar career by being named this year's Madison Courier Girls Tennis Player of the Year.

A three-sport star at Shawe, Abigail led both the volleyball and girls basketball teams at the school this past year. But it is tennis where she truly shined the brightest.

Abigail played every match at the No. 1 singles position, easily the hardest on the tennis court, and faced every team's best player. That meant that on some days she was matched up against big-name players who had already inked college deals.

Despite that competition, Abigail went 11-5 in matches during her senior season and 24-11 in sets played. She won 156 games against 111 losses for a .584 winning percentage.

"She has a lot of tennis ability and she has really grown throughout the years," said Natalie Hill, Abigail's mother and her varsity coach. "I feel like she has enjoyed the sport and she's put up with us as coaches and has gained a lot invaluable experience."

Abigail posted an overall record of 34-17 in her three years playing varsity, going 12-6 as a freshman splitting time between singles and No. 1 doubles when the Hilltoppers won their third-straight team sectional championship. As a sophomore, she went 11-6 at No. 1 singles and reached the second round of the individual regional tournament.

"I'm proud of her in all of her efforts, academically and athletically. She volunteers and she's a hard worker. I've never had to tell her what to do. She's always done her studies on her own and I think she's just a great, great kid."

— Natalie Hill
Abigail's mother and coach

Last year, after COVID-19 knocked out her junior season, Abigail spent the year working with her father, Chris Hill, who serves as a coach of the Shawe team along with his wife, Natalie. She shrugged off that lost season to put together an impressive senior campaign that ended with a hard-fought three-set loss to sectional champion Reagan Brown of Jennings County, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

"Since we didn't have a year last year and this was my last season, I just wanted to make the most of it," Abigail said. "I wanted to make as many memories as possible and enjoy every moment because it is the last one."

Abigail has no shortage of memories from her playing days at Shawe, led by the sectional championship her freshman year.

"Winning the sectional my freshman year when both Megan Hesse and Katrina (Gobert) came back and won," Abigail said. "It was pretty awesome to get that experience because my sister (Megan) got to win two previous sectionals and I got to win one my freshman year. That was the highlight of my career."

Another memory she will cherish is getting to play for her parents. Although she said having mom and dad as her coaches wasn't always easy, she wouldn't change it if she could.

"Sometimes it's hard having your parents as coach and sometimes it's not. I think my dad is harder on me than her and I get madder at him than her," Abigail said with a laugh.

"I'm proud of her in all of her efforts, academically and athletically. She volunteers and she's a hard worker. I've never had to tell her what to do. She's always done her studies on her own and I think she's just a great, great kid," Natalie Hill said. "And I'm proud that she has put up with us through the years. It's hard having your parents as coach. Her dad, Chris Hill, has been the backbone of her tennis development and has really devoted countless hours with her on the tennis court. I think they both have enjoyed it."

With high school behind her, Abigail will head to Purdue University in the fall where she has already been accepted to the Krannert School of Management and will major in marketing. While her official tennis career has ended, she said she'll never be far away from the sport that she has grown to love.

"I am going to try to play some club tennis and some intramural because I definitely want to keep playing," Abigail said. "I miss this sport already."

NC State, Texas, Tennessee, Arizona lock up CWS bids

No. 1 Hogs out

BY ERIC OLSON

North Carolina State, Texas, Tennessee and Arizona locked up spots in the College World Series on Sunday, with the Wolfpack knocking out No. 1 national seed Arkansas.

Two days after losing its NCAA super regional opener by 19 runs, Jose Torres hit a tiebreaking home run in the top of the ninth inning off SEC pitcher of the year Kevin Kopps and NC State beat the Razorbacks 3-2 in the deciding Game 3.

This marks the 21st straight NCAA Tournament the No. 1 seed will not win the national title.

Tennessee defeated LSU 15-6 and Texas beat South Florida 12-4 to complete two-game sweeps, and Arizona won a three-game series with a 16-3 victory over Mississippi.

Virginia beat Dallas Baptist 4-0 and Notre Dame defeated Mississippi State 9-1 to force deciding third games Monday.

No. 2 Vanderbilt and No. 9 Stanford were the first teams to claim spots in the CWS, which opens Saturday in Omaha, Nebraska.

Two CWS openers are set: NC State-Stanford and Arizona-Vanderbilt. Texas will play Notre Dame or Mississippi State and Tennessee faces Dallas Baptist or Virginia.

This marks the 21st straight NCAA Tournament the No. 1 seed will not win the national title. It's the eighth time since the tournament went to its current format in 1999 that the top seed hasn't reached the CWS.

Arkansas (51-13) had been the consensus No. 1 team in the polls most of the season, hadn't lost a best-of-three series since May 2019 and swept the SEC regular-season and tournament championships.

But NC State (35-18), which lost 21-2 on Friday, held down the Razorbacks' potent offense while winning two straight one-run games in Fayetteville, Arkansas. Two pitchers held the Hogs to four hits in a 6-5 win Saturday, and three pitchers combined to limit them to four hits again Sunday.

Torres homered in all three games for the Wolfpack, who opened 1-8 in Atlantic Coast Conference play and 4-9 overall. They made it to the ACC Tournament final and were a No. 2 regional seed in Ruston, Louisiana, where they swept three games by a combined 30-11.

"They're a really good group of players and committed to one another," coach Elliott Avent said. "They've been together and lived together four years now, and when you live together, go to class together, study together and do all the social things, you become bonded.

"They believed early on when we were 1-8 that we could rebound, and they stuck with it."

Arkansas coach Dave Van Horn made a surprising move when he gave Kopps his first start of the season Sunday. Kopps had worked long, middle and short relief for the Hogs this season and hadn't allowed a run in 15 ⅓ innings in regionals and super regionals.

"We talked about how many pitches Kevin could throw, how many innings he could throw," Van Horn said. "Could we bring him in as early as the second inning? If we could, why not start him? He wanted to start, so that's what we did."

Kopps allowed Jonny Butler's two-run homer and six other hits before giving up Torres' ninth-inning homer with his 118th pitch. Kopps threw 324 pitches in 23 ⅓ innings over five appearances in 10 days.

No. 2 national seed Texas erased an early two-run deficit with four runs in the second inning and two more in the third to go up 6-2 against South Florida, and fans in Austin stood and chanted "OM-A-HA, OM-A-HA" before the Longhorns got the last out.

Texas (47-15), which will be making a record 37th CWS appearance, got a home run from Cam Williams and two doubles from Trey Faltine. South Florida was playing in its first super regional, advancing as a No. 4 regional seed.

No. 3 national seed Tennessee (50-16) will head to the CWS for the first time since 2005. Tony Vitello has established a strong bond with fans since he was hired four years ago, and the excitement level around his program is unprecedented.

Suárez, surging Reds sweep Rockies, move back above .500

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Eugenio Suárez hit an early two-run homer and the surging Cincinnati Reds climbed back over .500 for the first time since April 21, beating the Colorado Rockies, 6-2, Sunday.

The Reds have won 10 of their last 13, including three straight over the Rockies. It was the Reds' first sweep of Colorado in Cincinnati since 2006.

"It was a great series," Reds manager David Bell said. "A lot of great things happened — offense, bullpen and starting pitching."

Tony Santillan, recalled from Triple-A Louisville on Saturday to make his major league debut while filling in for injured Sonny Gray, fell one out short of qualifying for the win. The 24-year-old right-hander allowed one run on five hits and four walks in 4 2-3 innings, striking out five.

Santillan needed 97 pitches to get 14 outs, leaving with the bases loaded and rain falling. He also hit two batters.

"It wasn't a pretty line, but I battled out of tough situations," Santillan said. "I can be happy and build off that."

Ryan Hendrix, the first of five Reds relievers, came in and struck out Dom Nuñez swinging on a ball in the dirt blocked by Gold Glove catcher Tucker Barnhart.

"It's nice having Tucker back there," said Hendrix (3-1), who got credit for the win. "He blocks everything."

Barnhart helped Santillan escape a second-inning jam, hustling around the plate umpire to make a sliding catch of pitcher Antonio Senzatela's popped-up bunt near Colorado's on-deck circle with runners on first and third and one out.

The Rockies stranded 10 runners in the first five innings, twice leaving the bases loaded, on the way to their fourth straight loss and seventh in their last nine. They left 12 runners on in the game and were swept on the road for the fifth time this season.

Colorado fell to 5-27 on the road, on pace to break the worst road record in major league history, the 13-65 mark by the 1935 Boston Braves. The Rockies are hitting a big league-worst .201 on the road and a major league-high .277 at home.

Suárez followed Joey Votto's RBI single in the second with his 14th homer

Suns rising at the right time

Phoenix roars into conference finals

BY PAT GRAHAM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER — Jae Crowder received all sorts of quizzical text messages for his decision to sign with the Phoenix Suns in the offseason.

What was he thinking? The Suns hadn't been to the playoffs in a decade. The West was stacked.

"I look like a genius, huh?" cracked Crowder, who took his talents to the Suns after helping Miami reach the NBA Finals last season. "I knew the type of group these guys were. I felt like they were hungry. They wanted to do some special things and I wanted to be a part of it."

Behind the brilliant backcourt of Chris Paul and Devin Booker and steady contributions from the likes of Crowder, the Suns are roaring into the Western Conference Finals for the first time since 2010, the last year they reached the postseason.

The Suns completed a four-game sweep of the short-handed Denver Nuggets with a 125-118 win Sunday night in a testy game in which MVP Nikola Jokic was ejected in the third quarter for a flagrant foul on Cameron Payne.

It was the seventh straight win for Phoenix — the longest playoff winning streak in team history.

After bouncing LeBron James and the defending champion Lakers in six games during the first round, the Suns made even quicker work of Jokic and the Nuggets.

Now, they get to rest up before playing either top-seeded Utah or the Los Angeles Clippers. The Jazz lead that series 2-1 heading into Game 4 on Monday night in Los Angeles. Phoenix was 1-2 against the Clippers in the regular season and 3-0 against the Jazz.

"Everybody at this point is banged up and can use that kind of recovery," Phoenix coach Monty William said. "We earned it and we want to take advantage of it.

"But right now, I'm not even thinking about that. I'm just happy about what these guys have accomplished."

Crowder has become quite a postseason catalyst, with his teams going 22-9 over his last 31 playoff games. Before the 2020 season, his teams were 20-31 in playoff games.

"Very impressive how locked in we are as a unit," Crowder said. "We have great leadership. We have great coaching putting us in a position to succeed right now.

"I definitely feel like we're connected as a group and it shows."

Right after the final horn, Paul and Booker — who combined for 71 points — made their way through the post-series handshakes and hugs near the Nuggets logo.

Waiting on the side was Williams. He shared a heartfelt embrace with each one.

Williams is tight with Paul, from their coach/guard time together in New Orleans. They have a strong bond away from the court, too, and Paul was there for Williams when Williams lost his wife from injuries in a car accident in 2016.

"Monty has been through things in his life that a lot of people don't necessarily come back from," said Paul, who scored 13 of his 37 points in the fourth quarter. "Basketball aside, he means so much to me and my family. So to be on this journey with him and to see it paying off is nice. We're a lot alike. We stay locked in. I don't feel good until the buzzer sounds. Monty's the same way. When the series is over, and the game is over, it's nice to share those moments."

The last time the Suns were this far was 2010 behind a cast that included the likes of Amar'e Stoudemire, Steve Nash, Jason Richardson and Grant Hill. They fell to Kobe Bryant and the Los Angeles Lakers 4-2.

"The emotions are happy, grateful, tired, relieved," Williams said of advancing to the conference finals. "It's one of those moments for me that quite frankly I never thought I'd have a chance to experience. For me, I have a level of gratitude I can't even explain."

To share it with Paul means that much more.

"Chris has meant so much to my career, he's meant so much to my life," Williams said. "The darkest moment of my life Chris was right there and one of the highlights of my career, he's right there.

"That's where it is right now. I'm not really good at waxing eloquent about how I feel other than just telling you I just feel grateful for this opportunity and to be on this team and in this moment and have a chance to move forward."

Larson wins 2nd NASCAR All-Star race

BY STEPHEN HAWKINS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT WORTH, Texas — Kyle Larson was back in the NASCAR All-Star race, and got another $1 million by winning it again.

Larson held off a hard-charging Brad Keselowski during the final 10-lap shootout at Texas on Sunday night, after a slippery three-wide pass for the lead, and pushed Hendrick Motorsports to its second consecutive win, and 10th overall, in the annual non-points race with a seven-figure prize.

Defending All-Star winner and reigning Cup champion Chase Elliott, who started the sixth and final segment of the 100-lap race out front, didn't stay there long.

Larson pushed his teammate, then got in front on the outside through the fourth turn. They were three-wide before Keselowski pulled ahead briefly at the line, then Larson got ahead to stay for the last eight laps.

"That last restart worked out exactly how I needed it to. I wanted Chase to not get a good run down the back," Larson said.

"Thankfully, I think (Keselowski) got to his inside, and I just shoved him down the back and he probably thought I was going to just follow him and I was like, there's got to be enough grip where we'd be running for one corner," he said. "It was a little slick up there but I was able to get it and hold him off from there. I can't believe it."

Larson said he had nearly all four tires in a groove above where they had been running laps. He had decided earlier that he'd go for it if given the chance.

"No points on the line ... If I wreck, I wreck," he said.

Crew chief Cliff Daniels said he didn't even think there was a lane up there, "and he put it up there, and it stuck."

Larson has gone to Victory Lane three weekends in a row, and four times overall this season.

Keselowski said running second to Hendrick cars these days is somewhat of an accomplishment.

"They're just stupid fast, and I had him off of Turn 4 but they just have so much speed," Keselowski said. "He just motored right on back by me, like damn."

Larson was with Chip Ganassi Racing when he won the 2019 All-Star race. He missed last year's big event at Bristol while serving a six-month suspension after using a racial slur during a livestream while in a virtual race during the pandemic. That nearly cost him his career, but Rick Hendrick gave him an opportunity this season to get back into the Cup Series.

Second in points with 10 races to go before the playoffs, Larson now only the eighth driver to be a two-time All-Star race winner.

Elliott finished third, ahead of Joey Logano, Ryan Blaney and Alex Bowman. William Byron, Aric Almirola, Kyle Bush and Kurt Busch rounded out the top 10 in the 21-car field.

Hendrick drivers Elliott, Byron and Larson started the final segment 1-2-3 — with Penske drivers Ryan Blaney, Keselowski and Joey Logano 4-6. Elliott had moved from third to first during the 30-lap fifth segment that included a required four-tire stop and $100,000 prize for his crew that had the fastest stop.

"Kyle got to my outside and that was the end of it, really. Just got beat," Elliott said.

Byron won the fourth segment, and had the lowest cumulative finish through the first four 15-lap segments. Larson, Blaney and Bowman, another Hendrick driver, finished in front for the first three segments.

of the season, a drive that left fielder Raimel Tapia watched sail into the stands after just two steps.

Senzatela (2-7) lasted two batters into the seventh inning, leaving after Shogo Akiyama's pinch-hit double off the right field wall put runners at second and third. Jesse Winker had a two-run double in the inning.

The Rockies needed just four pitches from Santillan to take a 1-0 lead. Tapia singled on the second pitch, Yonathan Daza hit the next pitch to right for a ground-rule double and Charlie Blackmon delivered a sacrifice fly on his first pitch.

Santillan regrouped to strike out Trevor Story looking and coax Ryan McMahon into an inning-ending flyout.

"We had multiple opportunities to get a big hit," Colorado manager Bud Black said. "What'd we leave, 12 or 13 guys on base? (Senzatela) did his job. I thought, for the most part, his stuff was good. He threw the ball fine. We had a couple of opportunities. We just couldn't break through."

McMahon added his 15th homer in the seventh.

BALANCED ATTACK

Every Reds starter except Barnhart finished with one hit.

RARE SWEEP

The last time time the Reds swept Colorado at all was July 27-29, 2012, at Coors Field.

FORGETTABLE

Story struck out four times, the first two times with runners in scoring position in the first and third innings.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Rockies: Santillan hit both Daza and Story with pitches — Daza in the right biceps in the third and Story in the back of the upper left arm in the fifth. Both stayed in the game.

Reds: OF Aristides Aquino was activated from the 60-day IL after recovering from surgery to remove his left hamate bone. OF Nick Senzel (left knee inflammation, surgery) was transferred from the 10-day to the 60-day IL.

UP NEXT

Rockies: Colorado hosts San Diego. LHP Austin Gomber (5-5) is 3-1 with a 1.57 ERA, three walks and 37 strikeouts over his last six starts since May 13.

Reds: Cincinnati visits the Brewers on Monday. RHP Vladimir Gutierrez (2-1) limited Milwaukee to six hits and two runs in last start on Wednesday.

CWS

"I wanted to get this thing to where people were proud of it," Vitello said. "The crowd here and the people on the street speaks volumes to where it's at."

After hitting no home runs in its 4-2 win Saturday, Tennessee continued its late-season power surge. Jake Rucker went deep twice, and the Vols matched their season high with six homers, increasing their NCAA Tournament total to 16 in five games.

No. 5 Arizona (45-22), which will be in the CWS for the 18th time, scored seven runs off three pitchers in the fourth inning to break open its game. Ole Miss started its closer, Taylor Broadway, and he left after giving up Ryan Holgate's homer and two singles to open the fourth.

The Wildcats' 16 runs were the second-most allowed by Ole Miss in 115 all-time NCAA Tournament games.

Virginia's Griff McGarry struck out 10 in seven innings and combined with Brandon Neeck and Kyle Whitten on the four-hit shutout in Columbia, South Carolina. The Cavaliers (34-25) scored all their runs in the eighth inning against the Patriots (41-17), with Zack Gelof leading off with a homer and Alex Tappen hitting a three-run homer.

David LaManna's three-run homer in the fourth inning broke open the game for Notre Dame (34-12). Aidan Tyrell held host Mississippi State (44-16) to one run on five hits in 7 1/3 innings.
